The cocktail was introduced by the army of the British East India Company in India. It is widely held that gin and tonic was an invention to get soldiers in British India to swallow some bitter quinine to keep away malaria. The first explanation is that the ancestral game was introduced to Britain from France during the 1660-1685 reign of Charles II Of England, Scotland and Ireland.

Croquêt can be played by two, four or six players. The object of the game is to hit your ball(s) through the course of six hoops in the right sequence in each direction and finish by hitting them against the center peg. The side which completes the course first with both balls wins. Men and women compete on an equal playing level without separate divisions.
